This came up on my Google news tonight, in the Los Angeles section: <http://m.ocregister.com/articles/sign-698002-hollywood-down.html>

Sorry for the New Year's Eve bummer... But more reason to close the entrance permanently.

It's only going to get worse.

Dear Sarah and Captain Zarcone,

I appreciate your response in sending Officer Hanna and Officer Ho to my home. I thought they both are very fine representatives of LAPD, and I hope they will be in our neighborhood for as long as needed. I want to share with the other residents on this thread that they told me they had written a lot of citations today and earlier in the day had even made an arrest. We need several dozen like them here in the neighborhood. Thank you again.

Subject: Re: Christmas in Hollywoodland

I notice that in a construction zone there are signs posted to the effect that fines for any infraction of traffic laws will be double the usual amount. Maybe instead of Caution on the electronic signs down on Beachwood we should put that same warning.

Ignorance of the law does not pardon the illegal action

There has always been a double standard for tourists. Rangers were told to just give warnings under La Bonge's regime. I think they are operating under the same old rule because nothing since has been mandated.

There seems to be a double standard with regard to enforcement of any of the traffic or fire code violations with our LAPD.

I was in my front garden when I heard an officer asking a visitor/tourist to move on that he was parked illegally in a red no stopping zone. The tourist already out of his car tried to debate with the officer that there was no other suitable place to park so he could just take a picture, the officer let him know that if he wrote him up a ticket it would be about $300 and asked him graciously to move on. I yelled out...Give him the ticket! How else are we to have some order up here if everyone just gets a slap on the hand when they obviously disregard the law when there are signs posted everywhere. If he had gotten the ticket, You know that young tourist would have been upset enough to post it on Instagram or facebook alerting everyone with a copy of his $300 ticket stating....it's not worth it!

I was parked with the car running a while back in front of the market to drop off my dry
